TimberTech[®] Deck in Raleigh Wins National Recognition from the North American Deck and Railing Association

SKOKIE, IL — At the sixth annual National Deck Competition in Baltimore, Md., Raleigh-based deck building company ROBCO Fence and Deck, LLC. won first place in the Illumination Project "Deck Lighting" category and second place in the Alternative Decking category, recognizing the team for their work on a multi-level deck built with premium TimberTech[®] Decking and Lighting with coordinated Premier Railing. The team that built the deck, Jay and Andrew Robinson, was recognized by the North American Deck and Railing Association (NADRA) at an awards ceremony held at the Hard Rock Café on Thursday, October 6th.

The competition brought deck and building industry experts from across the country together to celebrate the year's most outstanding projects. Jay Robinson, owner and president of ROBCO Fence and Deck, LLC., and his brother and vice president of the company, Andrew Robinson, took home a first and second place award for their creative deck building showcasing TimberTech Decking and Lighting with AZEK Railing.

"We worked closely with the homeowners to fulfill their vision of having a multi-level deck with areas to entertain and relax, a unique space for grilling, a fire-pit, and phenomenal lighting aspects," said Jay Robinson. "The deck truly is a starlit, outdoor escape for the homeowners."

The multi-level deck showcases TimberTech's Tropical Decking Collection in Antigua Gold[™] with an Antique Palm[™] border. It also features low-voltage LED TimberTech lighting that cascades on the Black Premier Railing, up the multiple levels. A fire-pit built on the lower level acts as a focal point of the deck, with all stairs and risers showcasing under mount riser lights with accenting side post mount lights and cap lights on the Bronze corner columns.

"We pride ourselves on providing low-maintenance, durable products that help homeowners create an outdoor space that best suits their individual style," said Julia Fitzgerald, chief marketing officer of AZEK Building Products. "Our TimberTech and AZEK products are designed so that families can truly enjoy their decks instead of spending time stripping and staining them."

ROBCO has won three national awards in two years for their creative projects featuring TimberTech Decking. The team won first place in Alternative Decking in 2015 for a TimberTech Legacy Collection Deck.
